

The world is changing. After many years of neglect, sustainable use of natural resources is back on the global agenda- a major vehicle for poverty reduction and economic growth. This renewed interest bodes well for our work. We are a distinguished project implementing powerhouse in Uganda specializing in Agriculture, Environment and Ecosystem related fields. Having achieved numerous milestones by complying with the different regulators coupled with our unique selling propositions (USP) that address the special needs of our clients; we are setting new trends and changing the face of farming. Our bold business strategy focuses our investments on capacity building and innovativeness; we have been rewarded with a diverse client base which in turn is increasing our market share. We are here to make farming fun and achieve our vision of bringing about a real and lasting difference to lives and livelihoods of rural people. We know how to take complexities of farming situations and make them easily understandable and relevant to business. My final plea is to startups and colleagues in the cooperate world willing to take that leap to become agricultural entrepreneurs, with our qualified personnel ready to address all your special need will be proud to take you through this journey of self-sustainability.”
